To Uplift Abandoned Mentally Challenged Children in Tamil Nadu

Date :
May 31, 2014

Time:
2 to 6 PM

Rajadevi lost her mother at the tender age of one. Her father, relatives and the entire village of Madathukkuppam abandoned Rajadevi as they felt it was difficult to raise a female child, particularly one with special needs. Now a resident of Anbalayam, home for orphans and special needs children in Sirkazhi, Rajadevi successfully fought a life threatening illness and is looking forward to her third birthday! Anbalayam children's situations include mental retardness, downsyndrome, autism, ADHD and multiple disability and all are orphans.

Rajadevi is just one of India's ten million special needs children who are treated as outcasts by the society. The proverb "It takes a village to raise a child" is true for a normal child. But it takes more than a village to raise an orphaned special needs child in rural India. It takes special people like you to raise the Rajadevis of India.
